Believe it or not, it's almost a year since GDPR (the EU's General Data Protection Regulations) came into force. What has gone well? What hasn't? What areas of confusion still remain? What traps still lie in wait to bite the unwary? Can we relax our vigilance, or are things about to get a whole lot tougher? This is the subject of our May meeting.

It will be led by Dr Mary Hawking, Ian Herbert and Dr John Lockley -- all three nationally-known -- who last year were instrumental in helping professionals understand the implications of GDPR for themselves, their organisations and their businesses.
